DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Verduijn, US 5,017,353.

Verduijn teaches a process for zeolite L preparation (see abstract). Zeolite L is prepared by mixing an alkaline mixture of water, a source of silicon, a source of aluminum, and a cation which may be an alkaline earth metal such as calcium (col. 4, lines 22-40). The zeolite L crystals have a particle size as small as 0.1 microns (col. 4, lines 7-15). Note that zeolite L is separated from the mother liquor, then the mother liquor is recycled to formulate additional zeolite L (col. 7, examples 1 and 2). The specific apparatus used to recycle the mother liquor is not disclosed, that is, specific mention is not made of a "circulating line," however, as the mother liquor is in liquid form, the examiner maintains that a line is the most obvious choice to one of ordinary skill in the art to transport a fluid. Accordingly, the use of a "circulating line" is an obvious design choice to one of ordinary skill in the art.
